HOW TO FIND US.

As IT networks become increasingly complex, you need a local partner who can provide a service to meet your needs that is, flexible, competitive and capable of meeting your business needs in a timely fashion.

Organisations must choose a partner who fully understands their issues, the technology and most importantly the critical business needs. Kedington Distribution is that source.

We have created a flexible and diverse portfolio of products developed to meet the up to-date needs of end users and contractors maintaining and building state of the art networks.

Kedington's portfolio of IT products provides your organisation with the freedom to select the optimum mix of passive and active components to address your needs.

The Kedington Group of companies was founded in 1989 to serve the expanding market for structured cabling and information network systems and services. Kedington is Ireland's largest supplier of LAN infrastructure having shipped in excess of 3 million data ports, 250 million meters of UTP cabling and 3 million meters of fibre.

Advances in network infrastructure have been matched by rapidly changing technologies. Kedington's ability to anticipate the need for new technologies, and being first to market with those technologies, lies at the core of the company's business. Throughout our history, Kedington has always demonstrated leadership. Kedington was the first company to supply CAT5e, CAT6 and recently the new 10 Gbit CAT6a product to the Irish Market. Other examples of Kedington's leadership include the early introduction of WiFi, G Bit to the desk and VoIP. This leadership is an important facet of the service provided by Kedington ensuring our clients have a source for the most up to-date technological solutions available at any time.

With offices in Dublin, Cork and Limerick, Kedington is the only IT distribution company with regional offices to meet your needs locally.
